ABOUT NCW

The National Commission for Women (NCW) is the statutory body of the Government of India, generally concerned with advising the government on all policy matters affecting women. It was established in 31 January 1992 under the provisions of the Indian Constitution, as defined in the 1990 National Commission for Women Act. The objective of the NCW is to represent the rights of women in India and to provide a voice for their issues and concerns. The subjects of their campaigns have included dowry, politics, religion, equal representation for women in jobs, and the exploitation of women for labour. They have also discussed police abuses against women.

ABOUT CHRSS

Centre for Human Rights and Subaltern Studies (CHRSS) of NUSRL, Ranchi was created with an objective to work on protection of Human Rights. The idea of Human Rights maintains that there are certain rights universal, Inherent and inalienable in nature. Universality believes that these rights are given to all. Inalienability ensures that it can never be compromised except by the procedure established by law. These rights are also of inherent nature and are the backbone of any Human Rights Treaty. The aim of the Centre is to achieve the goals of Social Justice enshrined in our Preamble and to achieve this goal, the members of the committee promises to engage in discourse, debate, seminar & Legal Aid.
